ALL BRITAIN
UNIFIED FOR EMPIRE DAY

Only Serious Accident in Canada Was Crashed at Local Airport

The British Commonwealth yesterday observed the birthday of Queen Victoria by reaffirming its loyalty to the Crown and marking the progress of the Empire since its emergence from a colonial status.

In Canada the day was observed as Victoria Day, a national holiday given over to patriotic observances. Chief part of the observance observed it as Empire Day.

Toronto began the official celebration of the centenary with the re-opening of the historic Fort York by Governor-General Earl Bessborough. In far off Australia the state of Victoria and the city of Melbourne launched celebrations of their centenary.

Australia and the United Kingdom exchanged greetings in London.

At Ottawa, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett spoke to a luncheon meeting of the London Canadian Chamber of Commerce by wireless. He conveyed Canada's greetings to Britain and the King's Wood, British postmaster general, replied for the United Kingdom. Mr. Bennett's words were heard through amplifiers by the whole company at the luncheon.

AFRICA WILL NOT SECURE

In Cape Town, the veteran anti-slavery leader, General Jan Smuts, told an Empire Day banquet the idea that South Africa might secure from the Empire was as dead as a doer's death. He said, as never more impossible than at present.

Lord Londonderry, secretary for air, told the Royal Empire Society in London that aviation was only a means of unifying the Empire which could be united only by the spirit of comradeship and understanding which so often overcomes divergencies in its interests.

PUBLICS' AIR DAY

It was "Empire day" in the United Kingdom. All Royal Air Force stations and civil airports were thrown open to the public.

Thousands flocked to watch exhibitions of flying. The King and Queen motored from Sandringham with Lord Londonderry in Britain.

Norfolk, to see an air force display.

In Montreal, thousands of French-Canadians attended Victoria Day ceremonies in honor of Queen Victoria and their adopted father.

FRENCH-CANADIAN TREATY

At Fletcher Field they heard Mayor Camille Houde read the order of the day in no native tongue.

The French-Canadian people, however, were not unmoved by the order of the day. They were not unmoved by the order of the day.

Canadian railways carried heavy passenger traffic as did those of the United Kingdom as many city dwellers sought to spend the holiday.

With regard to the taking of the evidence of a witness in Nova Scotia on commission.

Premier Brownlee's chief counsel explained that he had spoken to this matter in chambers on May 2 and at that time the date of the trial by a civil jury would be set by a judge of the supreme court.

Some time explained Mr. Smith he had seen Mr. Justice Trevelyan, acting chief justice of the trial division, in the absence of Chief Justice Macmillan, and he had been told that the case could be taken by a judge and a jury during the second or third week of June.

"I wish to make application to have the trial open on June 10 and also to have the evidence of one Snell taken down in Nova Scotia by commission," stated Mr. Smith.

"To regard to that," intervened Mr. Maclean, "I want to know what information or grounds there are that the evidence of this witness is material to the case and whether it is relevant and whether it is in the interests of justice to have his evidence taken in this way."

Mr. Smith: "I have an affidavit sworn to by the witness."

Mr. Maclean: "I am going to get a copy of the affidavit. I would like to see whether there is likely to be anything in the evidence of this witness that will require cross-examination."

Jobless Carpenter
Quits Champion

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 25.—James Wallace, jobless carpenter, defeated George Dunlop, Jr., United States amateur champion, 2 and 1, in the semi-final round of the British amateur championship here today.

Dunlop began the fifth Wembley Cup affair to fall before the hammering drives and brilliant putting of the Scottish youth, whose financial circumstances are so lean he lives on the dole. The others were H. Chandler, Eric, Cyril Tooley, Eric Fiddan and Jack McLean.

Dunlop, who was beaten in the semi-final of the 1933 championship by the Hon. Michael Scott was out in 35—even par-to-be on the 18th and then shot a birdie at the 19th and then a birdie at the 20th. Wallace scored a 28 with four under par and was over-ruled by a 24 percent.

The new loan will have a sinking fund of one-half of one percent per annum. It will be advertised today and will be received Monday.

FATAL CRASH MARS LOCAL AIR DISPLAY

The tail reared into the air and the engine crumpled under the plane broke in half.

"My God! He crashed!" someone screamed.

FIRE FOLLOWS CRASH

Spectators rushed to the plane. It burst into flames and burst from the wreckage. Firemen jumped for the side of the plane, despite the fact they were in imminent danger of losing their lives if the gas tanks exploded.

Berry had managed to crawl out the first side of the plane and was lying near the motor with flames dripping over his head. Body "Mickey" found of 1027 113 street an apprehensive, grabbed and pulled him by the arms and pulled him free.

Air Engineer Hodgins was dragged from the blazing wreck by Capt. Matt Berry, who was a private pilot, with "Bud" Porter, secretary of the Edmonton Northern Alberta Aero Club, and taking him. Recorders stated that Hodgins' feet were caught in the engine, but they managed to free them.

Meanwhile, Capt. Bell had managed to extricate himself from the left side of the plane, with the assistance of Harry Allen, assistant manager of the airport, of 9025 101 street.

All three men were conscious but suffering agonies. Dr. Harold Brown and Dr. Dickson, who were on present, gave first aid treatment.

AMBULANCES CALLED

Three ambulances and the fire department were called to the airport. A private pilot, all arriving about ten minutes after the crash.

It was evident to physicians that the crash could not stand. They tipped his clothes from him, preparing to administer first aid. He laid groaning and muttering under the ambulance. He carried to the stretcher and carried to the hospital.

Dr. W. A. Wilson attended Capt. Bell at the Royal Alexandra hospital, while Dr. McWhorter was called in for Matt Berry.

SUDDEN, FIERCE TRAGEDY

Spectators were left breathless at the startling tragedy with its events. In less than 15 minutes the plane had crashed, the engine had burst from the wreckage and the blazing plane reduced to a charred wreckage.

Fire equipment responded from 101st, 5th and 8th under Deputy Chief James A. MacGregor, and Chief Harvey.

Chemicals were used to stem the blaze but the fire roared through the big machine so fast that only a smoldering skeleton, a grim reminder of the tragedy, was left.

Observers were at a loss to account for the crash. Matt Berry, one of the best known non-flying fliers, was an experienced pilot and had no chances.

Several conjectures were made by pilots and mechanics in the field. They said that crossed controls might have crashed the plane, or that a wire in the newly-overhauled engine may have been the cause.

The F-14 Fokker, a 12-passenger, 425 horse power machine, was purchased from the New York Airlines about two years ago and was valued at about $25,000. It was brought down from the north about a month ago and housed in the airport hangar for an overhaul.

At 10 p.m. Wednesday mechanics started to work on the machine in order to get the engine working again. It was run about 15 minutes on Thursday and was an object of interest to thousands of visitors.

On Thursday afternoon it roared through the skies from the airport front of the hangar. Shortly after 5:30 local time the crash occurred. The wreckage was taken from the field and the machine moved away on its tragic run.

Chief MacGregor, of the United Air Transport, and residing at 1200 121 street, was flying a three-passenger Puma to the field with two passengers when the crash occurred.

In the following interview, MacGregor tells of the crash as it looked from the air. "Circling overhead, I watched the Fokker crash and burst into flames. It fell fully to the northeast corner of the field, about 100 feet from the hangar. It did not look as if it had hit the ground more than 10 feet in the air. The machine then appeared to hit an air current. Berry apparently fell out of the air by turning the wheel left.

"Instead of pulling up, however, the machine nosed into the ground. The left wing went under the ground. The right wing went under the ground. The plane went under the body and before a person could count two the wreckage had burst into flames.

CONTROLS PERHAPS CROSSED

"While it is impossible to tell what actually happened, it may have been that the controls were crossed, that is, that the pilot had pulled up the stick when he should have pulled it down, or vice versa.

"Matt was a safe and experienced flier. I am convinced he had no intention of crashing. He was a very good pilot. MacGregor landed his machine a few moments after the accident and was taking up to a safe distance from the wreckage. He was then taken to the hospital.

Charles E. Moffet, vice-president of the Aero Club, was present at the crash. He said that he may have been due to one of a number of causes. The real reason appeared for the husband.

Room-base VERSUS Wheel-base

WHEEL-BASE This is the outside distance from hub of front wheel to hub of rear wheel.

ROOM-BASE The inside body room of the car — the distance from the dash to back of rear seat.

It's the V-8 engine. In this design, four cylinders are built in two banks of four each and are opposite each other in the shape of a V. This compact arrangement means that they take up only half as much space in the hood as they would if they were strung out in a long straight line. Your own type of engine will show you how much more leg room, seat room and head room you get in the New Ford V-8.

$34 A MONTH with reasonable down payment now buys a New Ford V-8. SEE FORD DEALERS FOR DETAILS.

Take the New Ford V-8, for instance. Its wheel-base is 112 inches — a good, generous dimension. But the roominess of the body is even greater than you would expect in a car of this size.

The reason is plain and easy to see. But it is not something that you usually associate with body room.

AMPLE ROOM IN FRONT — Ford V-8. Twelve inches more leg room than back of front seat. Exceptional leg room.

ROOMY REAR COMPARTMENT — You have 26 inches of leg room between front and back seat of the Ford V-8. Tuck in your feet and relax.

Great Britain Notified of Intention to Broaden Conference

LONDON, May 25.—The United States government, it was learned authoritatively today, has instructed Ambassador Robert W. Hingham to inform Great Britain the United States is prepared to carry on preparation for the 1934 naval conference through normal diplomatic interchange and discussions.

Ambassador Hingham has informed the British government of Washington's attitude which was reported to be long ready for a broadening of the conference to questions of technical naval aspects if such broadening should seem advisable.

Answers to RSD

Last week the British foreign office asked Ambassador Hingham, and presumably, the Japanese government, to ask for government of their governments what steps they were willing to take looking forward to the preliminary preparations for the conference.

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

HOLLYWOOD, May 25.—A million picture star cannot be a true wife. There is too much to the job for one person to do it all.

This may sound a bit ridiculous but nevertheless it's true. There's a great deal more to this business of being a film star than simply going through a few scenes before the camera.

Consequently, those who have gained fame through the silver screen must employ others to do the things they haven't time to look after themselves.

Just how many employees must be of each star's payroll depends largely upon the star's business interests and the degree of lavishness in which he desires to live.

Carl Brisson, for example, has 50 persons working for him in this country and in Europe. He leads the list from an employment standpoint.

Having retained extensive business interests on both sides of the Atlantic, Brisson needs a lot of help to conduct them properly.

Jack Crosby, a corporation with himself, has 11 on his payroll, ranging from his business manager to his household servants. Muriel Hopkins and Kiki Carlisle have a like number. Mae West has seven employees. Gary Cooper employs six.

Richard Arlen and W. C. Fields have five each. The number employed by Marlene Dietrich varies from five to eight, depending upon the size of the house in which she happens to be living.

Naturally, many of the employees kept by the stars are lawyers. They don't necessarily need personal maids or valets or the sort with them at all times. Neither do they need chauffeurs. But those things are nice.

However, it is essential that they properly investing their huge salaries.

If they organize business enterprises, they must have managers to run them. Consequently, every great star finds himself very much in the role of an employer.

Strand Brings Glittering English Film

London's glittering night life, the night life of the glitzy youth about town, with super-elegant supper clubs and internationally famous cabaret extravaganzas as its background, is the theme of "Aunt Sally," the controversial mixture of song, dance, spectacle and lively burlesque, which the Strand presents on Saturday for a four day run.

Cicely Courtneidge, the most famous comedienne, is the star of "Aunt Sally" and she teaches tonight which reduces her audience to helpless hilarity. Her inimitable flair for burlesque gives her great scope as Sally Bird, the English girl who changes her name to Madam Zaza when seeking to establish herself as a cabaret artist in London.

Several song hits are in the piece, notable among them being "Riding on a Rainbow," "The Wind in the Willows," "My Wild Cat," "If I Had Napoleon's Hat" and "I Want a Fair and Square Man," but not only song and dance and extravagant cabaret scenes but the night and day scenes of well known London saloons combine to make "Aunt Sally" the outstanding British film of the year.

For the past year the British film industry, drawing its directors, technicians and artists from the United States, has been making technical progress and in "Aunt Sally" the peak has been reached.

EMPRESS

A new star and superb entertainment are two contributions made to the screen by "Man of Two Worlds," a current attraction at the Empress theatre.

Francis Lederer, acting sensation of the European and Broadway stage, is presented in this production, which delighted a capacity audience last night. Heralded as an artist with irresistible charm and amazing talent, Lederer more than lived up to all advance notices.

Stellar honors are shared by Elina Landi, who gives a strong and vivid portrayal as the blonde dream of the story.

Scientifics invade the frozen North, to make specimens of animal life for the London zoo. There they find Lederer, in the role of Greenland's greatest hunter. During the expedition, he conceives a strange and idealistic passion for the photograph of the leading scientist's daughter.

The scientist returns to London with Alga. Bewildered and enthralled by the amazing world of civilization, Alga begins to forget his young native wife in an infatuation for the cultured Mayfair belle.

Then the park which lies an explosion of emotions is accidentally struck, and the young hunter's dream world crumbles about him. From that heart-breaking climax, events move swiftly to a logical and satisfying conclusion.

The other picture on the Empress double feature program is "Sing and Like It," with Za Su Pitt.

MOVEMENT TO OUTSIDE IS INCREASING

City Heads Worried As Home-owners Keep Moving Out

An increased movement of city residents to lower suburban areas during the past year has been responsible for the city administration attempting to discourage such a movement.

With a view to ascertaining the reasons for the exodus, particularly in districts west of the city, the city finance committee dealt with reports submitted by department superintendents, Wednesday.

In its statement, the committee is architect and building inspector. There can be no question that the cause of the development outside the city limits is, in the opinion of the committee, the lower taxation which is available in that area. The transportation facilities which have been extended recently by the paving of the Rocky Plain Road and the inauguration of the bus system in conjunction with the street railway system in this district have greatly facilitated the movement.

Mr. Matland suggests a two-fold remedy for this problem. He feels the city would seem to be justified in withholding as far as possible the extension of utility services to people outside the city limits. He also suggests that the city should make some effort to attract other industries to the city, thus making it more attractive to the city.

SUGGESTS CONFERENCE

City Engineer H. J. Matland, it might be advisable to convene representatives of outside municipalities to which the city has extended utility services. The committee also suggests that the city should make some effort to attract other industries to the city, thus making it more attractive to the city.

At the present time, no action is being taken by the city to discourage the movement of residents to lower suburban areas. The committee, however, is of the opinion that the city should make some effort to attract other industries to the city, thus making it more attractive to the city.

Soviet Visions Rivers of Wealth Flowing Out of Siberia's Wilds

Vast Asiatic Region Rich in Natural Resources

This is the second of a series of our stories on Siberia, where the Soviet Union now is spreading its tentacles. The first story was on the vast Asiatic region, where the first year's work netted more than six million rubles worth of the precious metal, above is shown a Young Pioneer's camp in the heart of the Tomsk region, where alluvial beds are rich in gold.

Khabarovsk, Siberia, May 25.—On the almost-deserted mountains of February 17, 1932, a column of smoke and silver men, women and children, seen in chains, were chained to the line by their Communist leaders and given the order: "Forward, march!"

And, thousands of unchained men, women and children, seen in chains, were chained to the line by their Communist leaders and given the order: "Forward, march!"

In its "winning of the east," the Soviet Union is finding Siberia a veritable treasure house and among the rich mineral deposits of this vast land are extensive tracts which yield gold. Among them is the rich Tomsk district, where the first year's work netted more than six million rubles worth of the precious metal, above is shown a Young Pioneer's camp in the heart of the Tomsk region, where alluvial beds are rich in gold.

YANKEE SQUAD

WILSON'S OPENING DAY

Edmonton sport fans got a glimpse of one of the country's widely known middle distance men yesterday when Phil Edwards, the transatlantic runner from British Columbia, who was made medicine at McGill, performed at the annual Highland games. Not one who saw him failed to come away impressed as the smoothness of the lean runner who galloped his way to fame, first in New York and later as a member of Canada's Olympic team. Showing what a scintilla he is, the dusky half-mile runner really went to work in his race and ran the distance in record time. Though beaten by Norman Holt, who ran against the famous runner, proved that he is a coming star and was complimented by Edwards. Still a youngster, Holt has all that it takes to make a real star at the middle-distance.

"But I'll be gone. Ha, ha! He, lo, come on, you Twanities! let's go. But, first, I'll shake your hand, and thank you all for what you've done."
The shaking staff was shortly seen. Then down the road the whole bunch fled. Oh Humpty made the tots move fast. My, how the man could run!
